

Orange County's congressional delegation split on Monday's vote on the government's financial bailout plan with three supporting the administration and congressional leaders and three others defying them. Loretta Sanchez, the delegation's only Democrat, was among the "no" votes. Sanchez represents ...

Orange County's congressional delegation split on Monday's vote on the government's financial bailout plan with three supporting the administration and congressional leaders and three others defying them.

Loretta Sanchez, the delegation's only Democrat, was among the "no" votes. Sanchez represents parts of Santa Ana, Garden Grove and Anaheim.

A pair of Republicans who don't usually vote with Sanchez joined her in opposing the bailout plan: Dana Rohrabacher, who represents parts of Costa Mesa, Fountain Valley, Huntington Beach, Los Alamitos, Seal Beach and Westminster; and Ed Royce, who represents parts of Stanton, Cypress, Buena Park, Fullerton, Anaheim, Placentia and Orange.

Supporting the bailout plan: John Campbell, a Republican representing Irvine, parts of Newport Beach and South County; Ken Calvert, representing parts of South County; and Gary Miller, who represents northern, eastern and southern parts of the county.

The House of Representatives voted down the bailout plan 228-205, leading to sweeping declines on Wall Street.

The Dow Jones Industrial Average closed down 7%, the biggest decline since 1987. The index's 778-point drop was its biggest ever.

The S&P 500 was off 8.6%, while Nasdaq was down 9.1%.

Just about all Orange County stocks fell with the broader market.